

As a resident of San Diego, America's seventh largest city, there are only two Christian, music radio stations: K-Love and Airl. Both of these stations operate via translators. These two stations are about the only two stations that I can safely let my children listen to, for there is no vulgarity or sexual innuendos ever, rather, it is simply great music that carries a positive message. If Airl or K-Love were displaced by a Low Power FM station, then we would lose this great service that they provide. What is more, I have several friends with teenagers who listen to Airl because it is modern and plays such well-known artists as DC Talk, Jars of Clay, Mercy Me, and Switchfoot. In short, the music is positive and has had a wide-reaching impact for good in San Diego. If it is deposed by a Low Power FM station, then that will be a tragedy. Thank you, for considering my comments.
